

*The Right to Wear White is a Christ-centered non-denominational retreat.
All the sessions are focused on the message of purity before marriage founded on Biblical principles.*

Our desire is to encourage girls 12 to 20, with the help of their moms, to follow the truths in our Father's message of "the gift of purity before marriage." We believe it is one of the strongest foundations for building their future marriage.

Our prayers are for this message to reach every girl.

*We do want you to know the love we have for the Lord, His Word, and the passion we have for the message of purity.
That is the basis for all we do.*

Thank you for considering this retreat and passing this brochure along. Please take a moment to pray for this year's retreat.

Beauty is in the eye of the beholder
You are beautiful in His sight

Testimonies continued

"I believe that The Right To Wear White retreat gave me a deeper understanding of what purity is. I understood so much more about my mother and learned to appreciate her more."

– Emily

"Is when I read 1st Peter 3:10 it really spoke to me on how people speak evil and it spoke to me how not to speak evil."

– Belinda

"Volunteering helped me to realize that God gives second chances to his children by gracing his daughters with husbands who respect their choices. He does wonderful things through this retreat by preparing his daughters to embrace his sons."

– Courtney Palmer, 25

"I think it is awesome to stay abstinent until marriage. The Right to Wear White inspired me to go to the silvering thing which is another course for abstinence."

– Christy

"The most fun thing to do with my mom was getting her ready for the gala ball. Best part of the retreat was everything. The friends that I made were Kimberley."

– Erica

"Why my mom should come? She is a great person who I care for, great example for young ladies. She is the only one who can drive safely!"

– Deah Jones, 12

The Right to Wear White

November 25-27, 2011

Edmonton

The king is enthralled by your beauty; honor him, for he is your lord... All glorious is the princess within her chamber; her gown is interwoven with gold. In embroidered garments she is led to the king.

Testimonies from Attendees

“The Right To Wear White has helped me grow in many ways. The Retreat has built up my self-confidence immensely throughout the years. I have learned to love myself and to understand the importance of being a woman and the gift that I have to offer, when the time is right. It has caused an amazing group of people to come together and work towards a common goal that we all strongly believe in. I have made friendships along the way and hope to make many more in the future. I have been blessed with the ability to help young ladies learn that staying pure is through their mind, body and spirit, which is a hard thing to do in today’s society.”

– Laura King, 18

“Since I went through the Right to Wear White in 2005 a lot has happened in my life. I went through the retreat with my mother. She and I didn’t have the best relationship that a mother and daughter should have. Since going through this, our relationship has grown stronger and a little bit closer. There’s still things that we are working on but it’s becoming better everyday.

About a year later I started to date someone. I knew though that before I dated anyone that they have to respect and treat me the way that I deserve to be treated, that they like me for me and not something that they want me to be. So when I started dating my boyfriend we talked and he knew that I am to be treated like a princess and that he needs to respect me. We talked about that if he wanted someone to show the whole world what they got and left nothing for just her husband to see, then we weren’t going to date.

In my opinion I believe that being modest is way attractive than showing what you’ve got. You can still be stylish and be modest all at the same time. About 6 months after Daniel and I started dating we got engaged and we are getting married this summer. But he knows that I’m very strong in my values and that would never change. Your life is valuable and you should believe your life means something. Even if you have done things that you know that you shouldn’t, it’s ok because you can change your actions now.

Being pure ‘till you’re married is worth the wait. I think anyways because it’s special to be able to give your husband all of you. The way that God intended it to be. From going through the Right to Wear White I have learned this about myself and why I am to be pure for the man that I am to marry one day.”

– Ashley Wassing, 22

“I loved the Gala Ball and the self-confidence activities. I think that the wonderful talks helped me think differently about marriage.”
